SEASON: Outlaws fall
to Creswell in second round of playoffs

Continued from page 28

A day later the Outlaws fell to Creswell.
Fischer led the team with 15 points, followed by Scott who put up 14.
“This was a game we really wanted to get in order to get back into the state playoffs for the third consecutive season,” said Rush.
“Creswell’s zone defense proved to give us troubles scoring and once they got the lead, never allowed us to make long runs to get back into the game. I thought we did a good job, despite our offensive struggles, of battling and keeping the game close. I always felt we had a chance to make a run and turn the game around, but unfortunately that just never happened. I am sad to see the season come to a close with this group of great young men.”

Group targets swing districts

By Julia Shumway
Oregon Capital Chronicle

A dark money group founded by a national Republican political operative and oil industry lobbyists stepped up its efforts to influence Oregon voters this week, sending mailers and buying ad space in seven competitive state House districts.
Voters in the four Republican-held districts received glossy pieces of mail asking them to thank their representatives for sponsoring a bill to make drug possession a misdemeanor punishable by a year in jail, while voters in three swing districts held by Democrats were told their representatives “failed to protect Oregonians.”
The ads and mailers were paid for by the Coalition for Safe, Healthy and Prosperous Communities, a dark money group that has been involved in Oregon politics since 2022.
Ad targeting Democratic Reps. Annessa Hartman, Emerson Levy and Hoa Nguyen ask where the representatives are as Oregonians die from dangerous drugs. Hartman, Levy and Nguyen all narrowly won their races in 2022 in districts based in Oregon City, Bend and southeast Portland, respectively.
